

JoLLE@UGA®

JOURNAL OF LANGUAGE & LITERACY EDUCATION

The Muses Among Us

Jerome C. Harste

Historically the Muses have semiotically signified the arts. Artistically they are often depicted as "other," somehow distant from us. A close look at "The Muses Among Us" shows viewers as part of the depiction, thus suggesting that the Muses are us and we them.

Jerome C. Harste is Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Culture, Literacy, and Language Education at Indiana University. Prior to his retirement in 2006 he served as president of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE), the National Reading Conference (now the Literacy Research Association), The National Conference on Language & Literacy, and the Whole Language Umbrella. Since retiring from IU, he has had time to develop his artistic skills. His watercolors have been featured on book covers and in Language Arts, JoLLE, California English, and juried into several national watercolor exhibits. He holds "Signature Status" in the Bloomington Watercolor Society and the Missouri Watercolor Society and can be reached at harste@indiana.edu

