Athens, GA
By T. Hunter Strickland
From the Editor:

I sat down with local artist and author, Stan Mullins, at his studio off Pulaski Street in Athens. We talked about his international career in sculpture, painting, and writing. The focus of our discussion was on his two published children’s books, Under the Backyard Sky, and Codalino. Stan talked much about his process in writing children’s books and the art that he creates for them, as well as his hope for the use of his art in the local and global communities. Check out the pictures below from his studio, and listen to the podcast of our interview.
