Cecelia Joyce Price earned a PhD in Curriculum and Instruction from University of North Texas. Her research interests include arts-related multimodal literacies. Price’s series Futures of Mpeasem (“Teacher Victoria and Her Students,” “Literacy and Liberation,” and “Celebration!”) was inspired by photos of an African school taken by Dr. Cynthia Dillard, University of Georgia Education Professor. Along with “Family Homecoming Fantasy,” these pieces illustrate the sociocultural, multimodal nature of literacy, specifically the impact of school, home, and non-verbal interaction on literacy development.
